

A Guide to Income Tax in Singapore

In this guide, we have condensed and summarized the most basic and relevant information from the Inland Revenue Authority of Singapore (IRAS) to give you an overall big picture of how income tax works in the country.

Here is the general rule: whether you will incur income tax or not, and how much, is dependent on your tax residency status.

Resident Tax Payer	Non-Resident Tax Payer
Singapore Citizen	Stayed in Singapore for 61 to 182 days
Singapore Permanent Resident	Employed in Singapore for a maximum of 60 days
Foreigner who has worked or stayed in Singapore for at least 183 days

Income Tax Rates for Resident Tax Payers

Singapore's income tax rates for individuals are directly proportional to their income. As your income increases, the income tax rate increases, and the gross tax payable also increase.

Income Tax Rates for Non-Resident Tax Payers

A

15% flat income tax rate or based on resident tax payer rates, whichever incurs more gross tax payable.

B

If you worked in Singapore for less than 60 days, your employment is considered short-term, and you are exempt from income tax

C

From YA 2024, the income tax rate for non-resident individuals (except on employment income and certain income taxable at reduced withholding rates) will be raised from 22% to 24%.

What is Taxable, and What is Not?

As a rule, all income earned or derived from Singapore will incur income tax.

Sources of Income

Job Income

Trade

Businesses

Investment

Property

Trust Income

Winnings

As a rule, overseas income that is received in Singapore will not incur income tax. However, there are several exemptions to this:

A

If your overseas income is earned through partnerships in Singapore

B

If you are required to travel overseas due to your job requirements in Singapore

C

If you are employed overseas on behalf of the Singapore government

D

If you have a business in Singapore and you are operating overseas as part of this business

E

If there is a Double Taxation Agreement (DTA) between Singapore and the foreign country or there is a provision for reciprocal exemption by both Singapore and the foreign government, you will not be taxed in the foreign country

F

If you are taxed in the foreign country, you can apply for tax remission in Singapore to avoid being taxed twice on the same income

Deductibles Available for Individuals

Here's a list of the categories in which tax deductions are applicable:

Case Studies — Personal Income Tax Relief Cap

A personal income tax relief cap of $80,000 applies to the total amount of all tax reliefs claimed for each Year of Assessment. This means that if the total amount of reliefs claimed by an individual exceeds the cap, the amount of tax reliefs claimable will be capped at $80,000.

A Tax Reliefs Claimed < $80,000

Taxpayer A has earned an income of $160,000 and is considered a tax resident in the Year of Assessment 2020.

Taxpayer A has claimed personal reliefs totalling to $79,590.

However, as this is less than $80,000, she is not affected by the relief cap and her chargeable income is now $80,410 ($160,000 - $79,590).

B Tax Reliefs Claimed > $80,000

Taxpayer B has earned an income of $100,000 and is considered a tax resident for the Year of Assessment 2020.

Taxpayer B has claimed personal reliefs totalling to $83,190.

As this exceeds the cap, the total amount of personal reliefs she can claim is capped at $80,000. Her chargeable income is now $20,000 ($100,000 - $80,000).

However, as the first $20,000 is not chargeable, the tax payable is still $0.
